LANDSLIDE PREDICTED FOR MR. BRYAN IN OHIO

Republican Identity Lost in Roosevelt and Party
Has Become His Personal Property---People Resent Foraker's Treatment.

Washington, Oct. 14.—"The situation in Ohio at the present moment indicates a landslide for Bryan, from Lake Erie to the river," declared Mr. W. Hissey of Zanesville, intimate friend and legislative agent of the late Senator M. A. Hanna, today.

"The Republican party in the state is on the verge of division," he continued, "because of the attitude of President Roosevelt."

"Mr. Roosevelt, by the use of the big stick and the steam roller, has nominated his successor, whom he declares will carry out 'my policies,' and Judge Taft agrees to do so to the letter, showing conclusively that the Republican party has lost its identity and has become the personal property of Mr. Roosevelt."

"The business interests of Ohio demand to know why these hard times occur under 'my policy' administration. McKinley left a full dinner pail. Under Mr. Roosevelt the bottom has dropped out. There are no natural reasons for the existence of these hard times. It is up to Mr. Roosevelt, who claims to own the Republican party, to explain the situation."

"The people of Ohio resent Mr. Roosevelt's attempt to assassinate the character of one of her foremost citizens, namely, Senator J. B. Foraker. Ohio is proud of Grant, Hayes, Garfield, Sherman, McKinley, Hanna and Foraker—but among her great sons there is none greater than Senator J. B. Foraker—and the President's brutal treatment is indignantly resented by the Republicans of Ohio, from the lake to the river.

"A serious disaffection exists in the negro vote in Ohio, and 60 per cent. of that will be cast for Bryan. All over the state the negroes are wearing buttons with the inscription: 'Remember Brownsville.' This means 30,000 votes against Taft."

"There is serious division in the laboring vote, 80 per cent. of which will be cast again Mr. Taft and for Mr. Bryan, and the Republican laboring vote will mean 40,000."

"There are in the state of Ohio 500,000 Republicans. Of this number it is safe to say that 150,000 are Forakerites. It is not claimed that the entire number will vote against Mr. Taft. It is a conservative estimate, however, that 10 per cent. are sullen and angry, and Senator Foraker himself could not prevail upon them to vote for Mr. Taft."

"We have, therefore, a change of 85,000 Republican votes. Some one may say that Mr. Roosevelt carried the state by 225,000, but it must be remembered that that vote was four years ago, and that the last vote in Ohio showed the election of Governor Patterson, a Democrat, by 43,000 plurality, and the highest plurality given to any Republican candidate on the state ticket was only 45,000."

tures by Dr. Turner, who is a well known, competent M. D. The lectures will be followed by demonstrations. Knowledge gained merely by reading would be superficial and of little practical value.

Large physiological diagrams and a human skeleton will be used to elucidate the text. The various steps of first aid members will be practically demonstrated upon members of the class, and at the close of each lecture the pupils will be drilled in the several methods.

This practical and useful course of study is open to all Y. M. C. A. members. The class will meet in the Gym. at 8:30 Wednesday evening.

MORSE MUST FACE JURY.

New York, Oct. 14.—Charles W. Morse, head of the ice and steamship "trust," and who until the recent panic controlled a number of banks in New York, must face a jury today in the criminal branch of the United States circuit court here. Morse is charged with over-certification, application of funds and making of false entries in the books of the National Bank of North America.

WEDDINGS

GUTRIDGE—RIFFLE.

Gratiot, Oct. 14.—A very pretty home wedding was solemnized Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Riffel of Gratiot, when their daughter, Chloe Belle, and Mr. Leslie Guttridge, of Linnville, were united in marriage before a number of invited guests. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. J. M. Wells of Brownsville. The bride wore a beautiful gown of white mull, and the groom wore a suit of conventional black. Miss Florence Bell acted as bridesmaid and Mr. Edward Lake as best man. The ceremony being complete and congratulations offered, all sat down to an elegant wedding dinner.

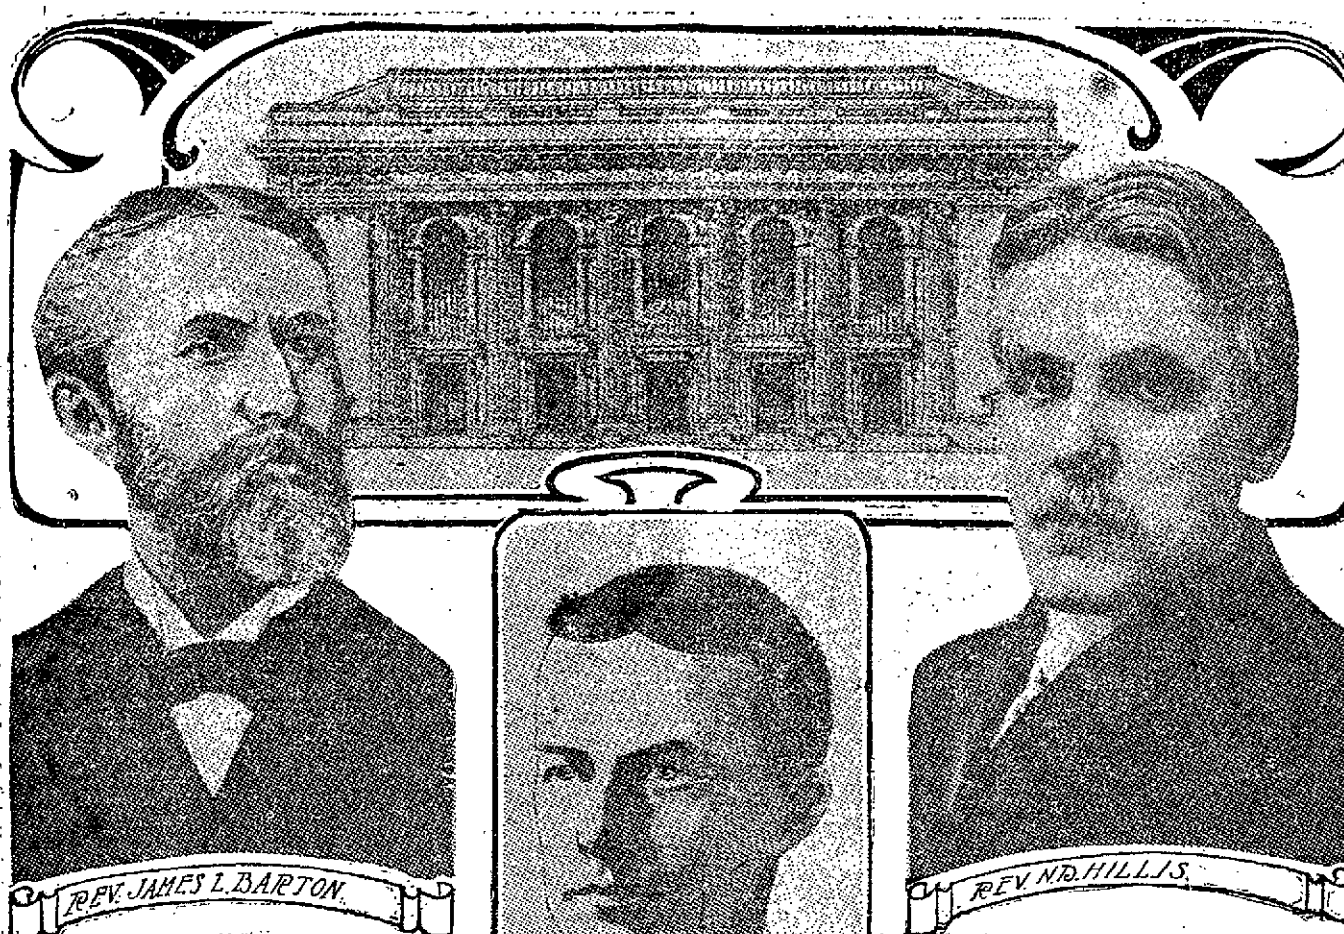

The presents, consisting of linens, crystal and silverware, were all very beautiful. The contracting parties were given a reception by the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Guttridge, of near Linnville.

FENCHEL—ROLF.

A telephone message to the Advocate, stated that Carl, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Fenchel, of 314 Beech street, this city, and Miss Gertrude Rolf, of Corning, Ohio, were married in that city, Monday evening at 7 o'clock, at the Catholic church. The young couple were attended by Martin Rolf, brother of the bride and Miss Cecelia Spring.

Mr. Fenchel is now in the city receiving the congratulations of his friends. His bride is at the home of her parents, but will join her husband later in this city, where he has a responsible position at the Emerson clothing store.

BROOKLYN MUSIC ACADEMY AND LEADERS IN FOREIGN MISSIONS CONVENTION

Brooklyn, Oct. 14.—Because of the disquietude in Turkey and the Balkan states particular interest centers in the convention of the American board of foreign missions, which begins sessions in the Academy of Music, Brooklyn, N. Y., on October 12. The Rev. James L. Barton, senior secretary of the board, who has just returned from a world tour, brings some startling statistics of the progress of religious work and of the industrial schools in Turkey and contiguous countries. The Rev. Dr. Charles S.

Mills of St. Louis, and the Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis of Brooklyn are active figures in the movement to increase the resources of the society and push the cause of civilization in the far east. Conditions in Turkey and the awakening in China are the subjects of most importance to all who are interested in foreign missions and are the key-notes in this convention. The closing sessions will be held on October 17 in historic old Plymouth church. This being the ninety-ninth annual convention of the board, extensive preparations will be made for a fitting celebration of the centenary next year.

AMERICAN WHO LED OFF IN BERLIN BALLOON RACE

After the destruction of the Conqueror, in which A. Holland Forbes and Augustus Post nearly lost their lives in a 4,000-foot fall, James C. McCoy was the only American pilot left in the Berlin balloon race. McCoy was the first starter in the international contest, his huge balloon, America II., carrying the stars and stripes. McCoy contested in the last international race from St. Louis, Mo., which was won by Oscar Erbsloeh of Germany.

SURPRISE

Mrs. James Pugh Celebrates Fifty-sixth Birthday and Neighbors Call and Pay Respects.

Millersport, O., Oct. 14.—Mrs. Jas. Pugh was pleasantly surprised on last Thursday, her 56th birthday, by her friends from Hebron and Baltimore. Mr. and Mrs. Pugh have spent their entire married life on their farm, four miles west of this place, but having recently purchased the Wm. Hand property in Kirkersville, they will soon leave their old home. Their friends being acquainted with the fact joined them to make the occasion most pleasant. Those present had enjoyed many other visits with Mr. and Mrs. Pugh, but will remember this. In particular, Mrs. Pugh was the recipient of a beautiful present, given by Mrs. Frank Hand, Perry Comisford and wife, H. A. House and wife, F. M. Good and wife, T. N. White and wife, Artie Taggart and wife, and G. R. House, who wish her many more happy birthdays.

MINERAL WELL

Near the B. & O. Depot and Whose Waters Have Effectuated Many Cures Should Be Restored.

The Licking Light & Power company, recently completed two drilled wells at their plant just east of First street. The wells were put down for the purpose of getting cold water to cool the cylinders of the gas engines used at the power plant, and are for this use, eminently successful. In addition to being pure and very cold, it has been found that the water is a fine mineral water possessing diuretic qualities, and has been tried with success by persons who are afflicted with kidney and bladder troubles.

The water at the abandoned gas wells near the B. & O. depot, is also a well-known and thoroughly tested mineral water, and many persons ascribe complete cures to this water. Vandals, however, have nearly destroyed the well by filling the hole with stones, and just now the flow is very small. Persons who need this water for their complaints, and who have been in the habit of using it daily, are very indignant at the wanton destruction of this fine well, and several of them have told The Advocate that if there is any practicable way of restoring the flow of the well they would cheerfully subscribe to their share of the expense. It indeed would be a boon to those that are afflicted to have the mineral well in the center of the city, and it is to be hoped that the movement to restore the well will be put on foot soon by those interested.

CONTRIBUTIONS

To Democratic Campaign Fund Will Be Made Public On Thursday.

New York, Oct. 14.—The list of subscriptions to the Democratic national campaign fund will be made public Thursday by National Treasurer Ridger. Outside of six or seven contributions the amounts are small. Charles Murphy, Tammany leader, contributed $10,000.

After the recent discovery of a new rubber plant in Ceylon-China, comes the discovery in Japan of a new

ANOTHER

County Captured by the Wets in Local Option Election Held in Putnam County.

Ottawa, O., Oct. 14.—The local option election in Putnam county yesterday resulted in a victory for the wets, they having received a majority of 145. It was the largest vote ever polled in the county—3,768 wet and 2,641 dry. Columbus Grove and Leipsic have been dry for seven years and at both places great demonstrations were held by the school children and W. C. T. U. This makes the third victory for the wets in the local option contest, Shelby and Deane counties having also substantial majorities.

AUSTRIAN POSTOFFICE

ATTACKED BY A MOB
Jaffa, Palestine, Oct. 14.—The Austrian postoffice was today attacked by a mob inspired by hatred of Austria for her late political movements. A number of mail wagons and letter boxes and a quantity of mail were destroyed.

NOAH WEBSTER AND HOUSE WHERE HIS 150TH BIRTHDAY IS CELEBRATED

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 14.—The one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the birth of Noah Webster will be celebrated in nearly every public school in America on Friday, October 16. The State Teachers' association of Connecticut will hold its annual meeting in New Haven within a stone's throw of the house where Noah Webster toiled for years upon his great dictionary on the very day referred to. It will pay a visit to the

AUSTRIA AND SERVIA WILL SURELY GO TO WAR

Conferees Will Bend Effort to Localizing War and Will Try to Prevent Participation by the Balkan States.

London, Oct. 14.—Austria and Servia will surely go to war, is the reported conclusion today of Foreign Minister Iswolsky of Russia, and Foreign Secretary Grey of England, who have been canvassing the Balkan situation since last Saturday. Inability to satisfy the demands of Servia in the forthcoming international conference will be the rock on which the peace program will split. Realizing the seriousness of the situation, the conferees will bend their efforts to "localizing" war and to prevent a general participation by the Balkan states and other powers.

BALLOONS MISSING

FOUR NOT HEARD FROM HAVE EVIDENTLY FALLEN INTO NORTH SEA.

British Balloon Banshee Has Best Record in the Late International Race.

Berlin, Oct. 14.—Four balloons that started in the international races are still missing, and today little doubt remains that they have fallen either into the North Sea or the Baltic and their daring aeronauts drowned. Two of the missing balloons, the German "Busley" and Swiss "Helvetia" sailed in the James Gordon Bennett cup race Sunday. A report from Heligoland says that the Spanish balloon "Castilla" fell into the North Sea near that city and that both its aeronauts were rescued.

The "Busley" was piloted by Dr. Riemeyer and the "Helvetia" by Col. Schaeck. Each balloon also carried an assistant. The German balloons, "Heggersell," piloted by Lieutenant Toetsch, and the "Plauen," in charge of Herr Hacksteiner, which started in an endurance race Monday, have not been heard from. The British balloon "Banshee," still has the best record.

FIVE THOUSAND KNIGHTS PRESENT

Cincinnati, Oct. 14.—The Grand Commandery, Knights Templars, went into session here this morning. Five thousand Knights, with 50 bands, are here to attend the annual convocation. The parade was held this afternoon.

TERRIBLE HOLOCAUST

OVER ONE HUNDRED MINERS
MEET DEATH IN A COAL MINE.

Six Charred Bodies Have Been Removed—Believed 200 Others Still Entombed.

Vienna, Oct. 14.—Over one hundred miners were killed in an explosion and fire today in the Koenig's coal mine in Silesia. No hope remains of saving any of the imprisoned miners, as fire has shut off the work of rescue. Six charred bodies have been recovered and their condition shows that they were burned to death rather than killed by the explosion. It is believed that there are nearly two hundred men entombed and that they will all be burned to death.

BIRTHDAY

Pleasantly Celebrated by Mr. Edward Haughey Who Reaches 80th Anniversary.

Mr. Edward Haughey, one of the oldest and best known of the older residents of Newark, was the recipient of a genuine surprise at his home, 100 North Fourth street, on Tuesday evening. The occasion was the eightieth anniversary of the birth of Mr. Haughey, and his good wife and children determined that it should not be passed by unnoticed. Accordingly they planned a surprise on him and invited about twenty relatives and friends to assist in celebrating the event. It was a genuine, old-fashioned surprise, and Ed was taken completely unawares and made a complete surrender. The evening was spent in having a good social time and in the discussion of a fine supper that had been prepared by Mrs. Haughey and her daughters. Mr. Haughey was born in Circleville, O., his parents being Levi Jefferson Haughey and Mary Haughey. He came with his parents to Newark when only three years old, and has lived here ever since, a period of seventy-seven years, with his good wife, who also survives. They were the parents of four children, two of whom are living. Mrs. O. C. Larson of this city, and Miss Cora V. Haughey, a well known teacher employed in the Newark schools. Mr. Haughey has the best wishes of a host of friends for yet many more years of usefulness.

DAMAGE BY FIRE AT GRAND MARAIS

Grand Marais, Minn., Oct. 14.—Fire early today wiped out the business part of Grand Marais, which was recently threatened by forest fires. Flames destroyed the Grand Marais Hotel, Mercantile companies store and warehouse, Cook county bank, home of C. J. Johnson and many other buildings.

A Book of Better Days for the Man at the Desk

Here is a book--interesting as a novel, instructive as a text book--telling some of the simple error-proof, time-work-and-worry-saving methods used by many of the 70,000 little as well as large--but always successful--Burroughs users in this country--and it is free to you.

Every word here means a dollar-and-cent saving to the employer who pays money to have the figures of his business handled by employees.

It is a book of inside information--information about the accounting short cuts, "stunts" of successful bookkeepers, cashiers, auditors, sales managers, treasurers and shippers--in fact, nearly 50 different suggestions illustrated by forms, tabulations and drawings.

Each suggestion has come to us from actual practice, through the Clearing House of Business Systems which this Company maintains at an expense of nearly $100,000 a year, just to give business men an opportunity to realize what the adding and listing machine can do for a business system.

Of course, it is an advertisement.
It is not a catalog.
It is the result of scholarly research and business experience.
But it is a different-from-the-usual advertisement--it gives you something for nothing--because you can save time by using the ideas without the Burroughs--but you can save two to five times as much time, and all the work and worry, by using a Burroughs.
If you never used a Burroughs you'll think this an exaggeration.
If you have used one you know this is a conservative and modest estimate of the value of the machine.

Every Bookkeeper--Yours, too--Needs this Book

There is not a bookkeeper in this country that could not use these ideas to the betterment of his work--not one that could not do his work more quickly, more easily, more accurately, as a result of applying some of the suggestions.

Thousands of Burroughs bookkeepers know this--admit it gladly and are getting better pay because they have gained time and opportunity in which to do more and better work--for every word on every page shows an opportunity to do more and better work and that always means better pay.

The new generation of bookkeepers are learning the things described in this book.
It is a significant fact that over 200 of the leading business schools, colleges and universities have purchased Burroughs in the past couple of years; that they are teaching their students how to apply the machine to accounting methods, shortening the work, increasing the accuracy. These schools feel the demand for clerks who know how to get more and better work done in a given length of time.
They are meeting it.

At first some bookkeepers prided themselves on the fact that "they could get along without a Burroughs"--of course they could--just as all of us can get along without the typewriter, telephone, steam cars, clocks and watches, telegraph--any of the hundreds of time, work and worry savers of the 20th century--but we are not foolish enough to try.

The Book is Free

It is free--for your name on your letterhead--or on the coupon--sent to our factory at Detroit or to Mr. C. J. WHIPPLE, our salesmanager for Northern Central Ohio, at 807 American Trust Bldg., Cleveland. Mr. Whipple hasn't any copies of the book for distribution, but will forward your request to the factory, from where a copy will be promptly forwarded.

The Cowardly Guard

[Original.]

When I was in Colorado away back in the sixties I one morning left Denver for the south. It was the day of road agents, and I confess I felt somewhat nervous. I was told by the Wells-Fargo people that the coach would be guarded by one of their men, Dick Steele, whom they considered worth half a dozen ordinary men. This satisfied me, for from the time I entered the state I had heard of the brave deeds of this same Dick Steele.

When we were about to start and Steele was pointed out to me I was surprised. He was a little fellow about five feet five inches, and I couldn't see how he could terrify even a single robber, and there were often several in the parties who robbed coaches. However, he had an eye which, like his name, was steel, and a cold looking steel at that, and I put him down for one of those men in whom nerve takes the place of muscle.

I made the trip out and back with Steele, and there was no occasion for the Wells-Fargo man to show his mettle. When I left Denver for Cheyenne to take the Union Pacific railroad for the east Steele was again the guard. This time when we were midway on our journey we heard the cry ahead. "Hold up your hands!" and the coach came to a stop. A man came and stood on one side of the coach, holding us all covered with a brace of revolvers, while two others on the other side opened the stage door, threw down the steps and called to us to alight. Steele was in the middle seat and next person to the open door. We all expected him to suddenly bristle with weapons and kill the two men before they knew what hurt them. Instead of that he tumbled out with his hands in the air as nimbly as a young fawn.

Seeing that he had no protection from this vaulted hero, we all got out and stood in line while the road agents relieved us of everything about us of any value. Evidently they had never seen Steele before, for they treated him just like the rest of us. I thought perhaps he might stoop and pull a pair of revolvers from his boots; but, although he had no special watching, he did not make the slightest movement. When the robbers were through with us they ordered us back into the coach and told the driver to move on.

As soon as we were free from the robbers there was a great outburst against Steele. "You're a pretty guard!" "Where did you get your reputation for bravery?" "The biggest coward in the coach!" These were some of the protests that were hurled against the man of much reputation. His conduct in bearing them convinced every one that he was not only not brave, but unusually cowardly. He did not resent a single one of these insulting reproaches. Indeed, he did not seem to hear them, keeping his eye out the window looking at the ground we passed over and watching for something.

Presently the road made a turn, and the coach passed around it and behind a clump of trees. Steele flung open the coach door, jumped out, unstrapped a Winchester from under the boot and started back, stooping among some bushes so as not to be seen.

I am not a brave man, but I am a very curious one. Seized with a desire to see the rest of the story for myself, I alighted and went after the guard. We had gone about half a mile from the spot where we had been robbed, and a third of this distance was a depression in the ground. Taking position in this depression, I could see all I wanted to see. I saw Steele dodging along a short distance ahead of me, and about the same distance beyond him were the robbers dividing the swag they had taken from us. Then from out a clump of sagebrush I saw a puff of smoke, heard the crack of Steele's Winchester, and a robber fell. Before I could have counted five there were another puff and crack, and another robber fell. The third man had only time to look wildly about him when he, too, went down.

Then Steele advanced cautiously. As he approached one of the robbers raised himself on his elbow and was about to fire at Steele when the guard dropped him, this time for good. Steele went to the place where the bodies lay, gathered up their spoil, turned and came slowly back. When he came up to me I remarked to him that he had been very lucky to find the robbers engaged, and he replied that they usually divided the plunder at once, so that each man could shift for himself without losing his share.

I went back with the little man to the coach, which was standing where we had left it, and Steele asked each person to pick out his belongings which he was not slow in doing.

Then followed an apology from every one who had rated the guard for his cowardice. Some of those who had been most abusive looked a bit terror-stricken, thinking that they might be called to account. But Steele paid no more attention to the apologies than he had paid to the abuse, merely remarking that a man who blustered up against another man's gun when the muzzle was toward him was a fool.

FALL MEETING

Of College Committee of the Ohio Y. M. C. A., Will Be Held in Newark Thursday of This Week.

Newark is to have the honor of entertaining the college committee of the Ohio Y. M. C. A. movement Thursday, the 15th. The fall meeting of this committee is the most important of the year and though the number of men attending is not large, the kind of men composing the company give it an importance. The men who come are leaders in the educational and business life of the state and of the Ohio Association movement, too. The afternoon will be occupied with the business meeting of the committee and at 6:15 p. m. they are to meet at dinner with a number of gentlemen of Newark and Livingston county in a social way.

Dinner will be served by the ladies of the First Congregational church, which means that it will be a good one, and will be 50 cents a plate. Any proceeds will go to the ladies' fund of the church. The meal will be followed by a feast of reason, when President Lewis is Bookwalter of Otterbein University, will preside as toast master.

The program follows:
County Work--C. C. Hatfield, State Secretary.
Office Management--W. A. Cochran, Columbus, in charge of State Office.
Religious Work--Harry Taft Williams, State Religious Work Secretary.
Railroad Men--Willard Beahm, Cleveland, with L. S. & M. S. railway.
The Miners--J. D. Van Scoten, State Railroad and Mining Secretary.
The College Men--Holmes A. Wilbur, General Secretary Dayton Y. M. C. A.
Work for Boys--President Hunt, of Denison.
Extension--Robert E. Lewis, State Secretary for Ohio.

The addresses are to be in the way of news, rather than theory, and will be of very great interest. There is no money raising in connection with the event but it for the express purpose of bringing together the men from other parts of the state with the men of Newark for a social time.

RATIONAL CURE FOR ECZEMA.

No More Dosing the Stomach--Cure the Skin Through the Skin.

When you have a scratch on your hand you wash it out and cleanse it and then the skin cures itself. You do not take blood medicine to cure a festering wound.

The best skin specialists today are agreed that the only way to cure the skin is through the skin.

The fact that eczema is a skin disease and not a blood disease is evident from statistics which show that nearly all eczema sufferers are perfectly healthy in all other ways except as to their skin. If the eczema patients were really suffering from an inward malady, the entire body and not only the skin would be diseased.

You can prove immediately the relief of a true skin cure by using oil of wintergreen as compounded in D. D. D. Prescription.

This liquid attacks the disease germs, numbing them while building up the healthy tissue of the skin. We have now handled this meritorious and thoroughly scientific remedy for so long and have seen its reliable result so many times that we freely express our confidence.

Wants Information.

Chief Zergiebel has received a letter from Mrs. R. W. Cassell, 2021 Franklin avenue, Toledo, inquiring as to the whereabouts of Margaret K. Cahern, or Cahern, who lived in Newark about 1863. The letter says that the woman and her husband, a John Bowers, and that one child, a daughter, was born. The woman is reported to have died in Newark, but nothing is definitely known about this by the writer, who is anxious to learn anything about the family that she can.

Bankers to Meet in Newark.

President W. T. Hoffman of the Ohio Bankers' Association, has accepted the invitation of the Newark bankers to hold the next meeting of the group, Oct. 5, of the State association, in this city. The meeting will probably be held here the last week of the month. About 100 bankers will be in attendance. Mr. E. C. Wright, of the First National bank, is a member of the executive committee of the association, and will probably confer with the committee of local bankers regarding the actual date of the meeting.

Another Accident for "Flicker."

"Flicker's" got another "bum pin." The remark that awoke an Advocate reporter from a comfortable snooze early Wednesday morning. With the hopes of a news story flaring him with excitement and expectation the scribe ventured to inquire. He found to his horror that Messrs. Frank (Flicker) Graef and Dr. D. M. Smith had been the guests of Messrs. Fred Burrell and John Kiefer, at the former's cottage at Buckeye Lake, and in their haste to catch the last car (it is understood it leaves at 8 o'clock, Mr. "Flicker" dislocated his ankle. Drs. Smith and P. J. Cosner re-set the injured member, but state that "there'll be a one-legged 'Flicker' for three or four weeks."

OBITUARY

FUNERAL OF WM. T. EVANS.

The funeral service of the late Wm. T. Evans, whose death occurred at his home on North Fourth street, Sunday, took place this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, at the Second Presbyterian church, the Rev. T. A. Cosgrove officiating. The public service was under the auspices of Newark Lodge, No. 97, F. and A. M., of which the deceased was a member. A brief private service was conducted by the officiating minister at the late home in the presence of the immediate family.

The funeral was largely attended by the hundreds of friends and associates of Mr. Evans, and his family, and elaborate floral offerings gave evidence of the esteem and respect in which the deceased has always been held.

GROSVENOR'S BLASPHEMY.

During a speech at a Republican meeting in Columbus last Friday night, former Congressman, Governor of Athens contemptuously referred to Mr. Bryan as "this man who is going around preaching about the advent of the Prince of Peace."

Probably through ignorance of the fact that "the prince of peace" is one of the titles that is given in holy writ to the Nazarene who was born in a stable about 2,000 years ago, some in the audience laughed at the irreverent remark.

Those who knew of the pure and upright life of Mr. Bryan from childhood, those who have heard Mr. Bryan's lofty discourse on "The Prince of Peace," delivered at many assemblages of Christian people in churches and at Chautauques; and those who know something about the career of Charles H. Grosvenor will think no less of Mr. Bryan on account of Grosvenor's almost blasphemous utterance at Columbus Friday night in his bitterly partisan effort to cast a slur at Mr. Bryan.

LABOR MEN SHOW UP TAFT

An incident which occurred at a congress of trades unions and labor organization held in Workmen's hall, Cincinnati, Wednesday night, October 7th, shows that in Judge Taft's home city the Taft injunctions were not regarded as the charter of liberties of the laboring man.

Among the delegates present was William M. Curry, son of the late Michael Curry, who was president of the Bricklayers' Union No. 1, of Cincinnati, against which Judge Taft imposed one of his first injunctions, and the penalties of which order practically destroyed the union, as the fines imposed, according to young Curry's statement, remain unpaid to this day.

Young Curry created a tremendous sensation at the meeting when he stated that when his father, as president of the union, asked Judge Taft after the injunction had been ordered just how far its provisions went and what particular acts were enjoined, Judge Taft raised his forefinger and wagging it, said: "From even doing that."

Another delegate who was from one of the railway brotherhoods stated that the Phelan injunction and sentence to the Lehighan jail in the A. R. U. strike in 1894 had not been forgotten by the railway employees, and would be remembered election day.

Lewis Littlepage, one of the delegates, a colored man and one of the leaders of his race in Cincinnati created another sensation when he made the statement that in his loyalty to the Republican party in the past he would have voted for a dog if one was put on the ticket, but that in this campaign he was working and proposed to vote otherwise on election day, and hundreds of his fellow-workers would do the same.

JUDGE E. M. P. BRISTER.

Judge E. M. P. Brister, the Democratic candidate for a second term as Probate Judge, is so well and so generally known, by the citizens of this county, as to need no introduction to them. For forty years Judge Brister has been in the lime-light of public life and his name is as familiar in the thousands of homes in this county, as household words.

Coming to this county with his father's family, in 1852, when only two years old, he has been a citizen here ever since and has always been prominent in politics and in every good word and work for the betterment of mankind. His abilities as a public speaker have been always in demand, for all kinds of occasions, ever since he was a lad of 16.

How he learned the printing trade when a boy, worked his way through Denison college, graduated with the honors of his class in 1877, studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1881, is a story familiar with the people of Licking county.

Judge Brister was elected Probate Judge of this county in 1890 and served one term, with entire satisfaction and was renominated but was defeated for his second term in 1892, in the land-slide that defeated so many Democrats all over the state.

E. M. P. BRISTER.

In 1905, twelve years after the election of 1893, Judge Brister was again elected Probate Judge and he has since served one term, with entire satisfaction, to the bar and to the public. He is now a candidate for his second successive term, to which his faithful and satisfactory service in that important office most justly entitles him.

A life-long and faithful Democrat, Judge Brister is a lawyer of wide information and ability, especially along the numerous lines of jurisdiction of the Probate Court and he has given eminent satisfaction as a Judge. His decisions stand and they are legal and just.

The Probate court is in many respects, the most important court of the people—it is the court, at least, in which the people are most generally concerned, in the settlement of estates and in many other ways. It is a matter of the utmost importance, then, that the Probate Judge should be a man who is qualified for the numerous and important duties of his office, by a thorough knowledge of the law.

The Probate Court — especially in Licking county — is a strictly legal office and it requires a man thoroughly versed in the study and practice of law to fill it. A man might be elected to some other office in the Court House and if he was not qualified to fill it, he might hire a deputy who was unqualified. Not so with the Probate Judge. He must hear the cases, and decide them — constantly involving numerous and intricate points of law, many of them entirely new — and, if he did not understand the law, how could he decide the cases? The Republican candidate for Probate Judge is not a lawyer.

It takes seven pages of fine print, in the index to the Statutes of Ohio, merely to mention the jurisdiction of the Probate court. The Probate Court of Licking county is especially important, as it has so many special jurisdictions that other Probate Courts, in similar counties, do not have.

The Probate Court in this county has jurisdiction in divorce and alimony; partition of real estate, foreclosures of mortgage and other important matters, that only ten counties in the whole state have.

Judge Brister has given special care and attention to the Juvenile Court, comprising the proper care and treatment of poor and wayward children, which court has been established during his present term. He has put that court upon as good a foundation as possible, during his present term; and it is a matter of importance that he be given another term, to completely establish the good work.

Judge Brister is always to be found at his post in the Probate court and he is uniformly courteous and attentive to all, and competent for the important duties to be performed. He is strictly impartial and fair to all. Said a prominent Republican lawyer: "What I like especially about Judge Brister is, that he always gives everybody a square deal!"

In a county of the size of Licking, with the extensive and important jurisdiction of the Probate court, it is imperative that the Probate Judge should be competent and qualified, by a long study and practice of the law, to properly discharge the exceedingly complex and difficult legal functions of that office. No one not thus competent could possibly fill that most important office. For that reason — and for many others in the interest of the general public — Judge Brister should and will be re-elected to a second term by a large majority.

MR. BRYAN'S ANSWER.

Mr. Bryan referring to a news item that appeared in one of the morning papers said:

"A press dispatch announces that Pennsylvania manufacturer of separators has given notice to his employees that the factory will close down for an extended period if I am elected. This is the most discouraging threat that I have yet read. I had supposed that the cows would go on giving milk under a Democratic administration, as well as under a Republican. But if as a result of my election cows are going to dry up in November and not become fresh again for four years, it will really be a serious matter. There must be some mistake about this separator business."

"The man may be manufacturing the separator that the Republican party has been using, for it has been using a separator that has separated the cream from the milk and it has given the cream to the monopolies and the skimmed milk to the rest of the people. That kind of a separator will no longer be used, and those who manufacture it may find their occupation gone, but for the rest of the people it will be a glad day—a day of rejoicing."

DOG INTELLIGENCE.

How the Eskimos Train Puppies For Work on the Trail.

The Eskimo begins to train his dog for sledge work before it is a month old. One of the most interesting features of Eskimo villages is the puppies tied to the pole of a tent. They pull on the rope with all their puppy strength in the effort to break away and join in the frolics of their elders.

Not until a dog bred for mail service is a year old is he put in training for the trail. It begins by running two miles with the team. Then it is dropped out. Next day it runs the same distance. Gradually the distance is increased until it reaches its fifteenth month of life, when it becomes part of the regular service. The life of a mail dog is from three to four years.

No greater punishment can be inflicted than to lay a dog off from service. When untidy they are often threatened with a lay off, and with almost human intelligence they seem to understand the disgrace it implies in the eyes of their fellow workers on the trail. All fight to be leaders. A constant spur to the ambitious dog is "the outsider," who will quickly take away the leadership not only in the mail service, but in teams maintained chiefly for the pleasure of the sport. The intelligence of the Malamute is remarkable, its scent wonderful, its instinct as a rule unerring.

Some dogs are better trail followers than others, as some are better leaders. In a blizzard the best of them lose the trail, but invariably find it. When on the trail they never eat but once a day; then at the end of the journey. After feeding, like weary children, they fall asleep and are never quarrelsome. It requires on an average twenty pounds of food a day for a team of eleven dogs on a hard route.—Philadelphia Record.

STORY OF A DEAD FLY.

How Its Presence Decided the Date of a Manuscript.

A queer story is told about a dead fly setting an important literary question in connection with Robert Louis Stevenson. It seems that some literary men were looking over a book of notes left by Mr. Stevenson, and it was important that they should find out the date when the notes were written—whether he wrote them before or after he went to Samoa to live.

As there was no date attached to the notes, the examiners were much perplexed as to how they might settle the matter, when one of them happened to discover a dead fly between two of the leaves. Now, one of the men was an entomologist—that is to say, he knew all about insects—and he at once recognized the fly as belonging to the Polynesian islands. It was evident, therefore, that Mr. Stevenson wrote the notes at Samoa. In what an unexpected way a knowledge of science sometimes helps us.—Chicago News.

White and Black.

Although white is, strictly speaking, an absence of color, so far as the prismatic hues are concerned, it is the combination of them all and is therefore called a color by the scientists. One of the definitions given by the dictionaries is "the color of pure snow," and another is "one of the natural colors of bodies." It is as consistent to call white a color as it is to call black one. White is a combination of them all, and black is a destitution of them all, and yet it is defined as the "darkest of the colors."

A Tail of Woe.

"I can't see what makes poor kitty cry so. I'm sure I'm not hurting her."

Industrious Princesses.

Sometimes little American girls wish they were princesses and had beautiful toys and nothing to do all day but play with them. But if you were a little girl in the royal family of Sweden you would find things very different for the royal father and mother do not believe in letting their children grow up in idleness. Instead, they teach them to be useful in many ways. The little Swedish princesses wash all their dollies' clothes.

Knew the President.

At the close of a series of a Syracuse school a little girl was asked: "Who is the head of our government?" "Mr. Roosevelt," she replied promptly. "That is right," said the teacher, "but what is his official title?" "Teddy!" replied the little girl promptly.—Home Magazine.

BROWN SQUIRREL FUR.

A Famous Furrier Is Now Rushing This Pelt.

Paxton, the famous foreign furrier, is going to put squirrel back on the market this season. He is not going to send it out in its natural shade, which is trying for any one to wear. He is dyeing it a brilliant brown, and it promises to be popular. Whether or not it will be extensive remains to be seen. Of course it will become cheap in the long run, because any of the furriers can dye the natural pelt and squirrels do not come high. It looks remarkably well in its new coloring, for it takes on a high silky luster.

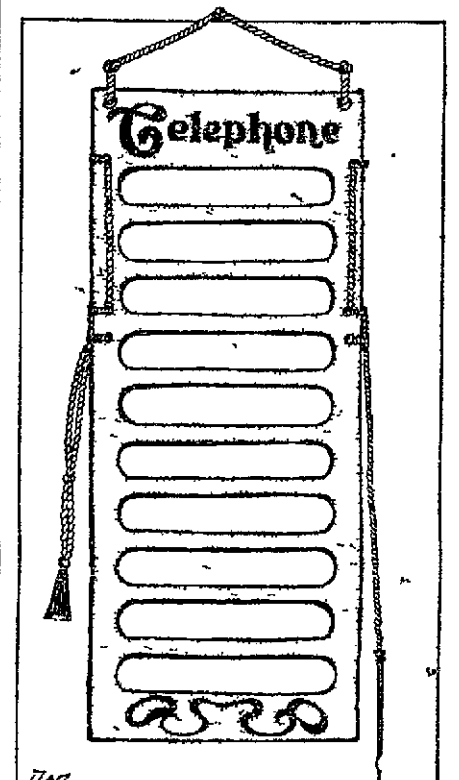

The Canadian rat, which was used before, is also to be deep brown in imitation of seal, and they say that it takes an expert furrier to tell the difference. This will be used for coats this season. They are not only shown in the short, loose jacket shape for everyday street wear, but also in the new directoire coats, which are cut away sharply at the waist and hang at seven-eighths length at the back. These will be worn over long skirts of satin, which are to be very smart for afternoon gowns, and they will be lined with the skirt material. Some are double breasted at the bust, fastened with three antique buttons. The revers are very wide, and the long sleeves are tight. To offset this severity goes an immense picture hat and a frilled stock with a great jabot of lace.

If a girl has any money left over from her coat she will put it into an immense muff. Those for the next season are almost as big as the hats.

FOR TELEPHONE CALLS.

A Convenient Tablet of Leather Made at Home.

For telephone calls a convenient tablet is made of two pieces of leather stitched together on bottom and sides. A heavy white Bristol board is slipped in from the top on which to write names and numbers. Silk cord is used for hanging the case and to ornament the sides, and the front is embroidered in satin stitch with yellow Roman floss. This design is furnished stamped on brown leather. Two skeins of silk will be ample for working.

By Grace of a Yawn.

Yawning, except in polite society, should be indulged in rather than repressed. The reason why? A good, free, unrestricted yawn counteracts the effect of laughing. Just stop and think how often a person laughs and how seldom, comparatively, yawns. The muscles are stretched in one direction while laughing and by constant repetition little lines are formed around the corners of the mouth. Yawning stretches these same muscles in exactly the opposite direction and therefore tends to undo the mischief caused by our good humor. Yawn, but don't stop laughing, or you will be like the woman who at an advanced age had not a line or wrinkle in her face, but whose countenance was entirely expressionless. Dreading these same lines and wrinkles, she had all her life schooled her features to express nothing but joy or sorrow.

Reflections of a Bachelor Girl.

A love affair is like a well—so easy to fall into, so difficult to get out of. A man often thinks he will marry a girl until he discovers that she thinks so too.

Platonic friendship is like perpetual motion—a beautiful theory that nobody has ever been able to make work.

Of course women should marry. No home is complete without a husband any more than it is without a cuckoo clock or a cat.

Many a true word is spoken by accident.

Hope is a good breakfast, but a bad supper.

Forget Yourself.

There are days, you know, when things "don't go."

And living a dismal affair. With nerves aflutter you are all upset.

With your worry and work and care. Then is the time to put on your hat.

And also a cheerful smile. Skip out in the street some friend to greet.

Forget yourself for awhile! Make fun of your woes. That always "goes."

With the fellow who has them too. And let's begin to fetch a grin.

So we put to rest the vex. And if it is gay it will wear away.

The trouble's on you pile. Put "worry" in soak with laugh and glee.

Forget yourself for awhile!—Square Moments.

Please Read This Letter.

It is from a Brooklyn woman who uses P. & G. Naphtha Soap.

"I cannot express my thanks for the introduction of this valuable soap. It is miraculous. It formerly took me almost all day Monday to wash. Now, I am entirely through by eleven o'clock. I cannot tell you how much easier my work is. I talk of it to all my friends and feel I should like all housekeepers in our city who wash so hard with other soaps, to know of this wonderful soap."

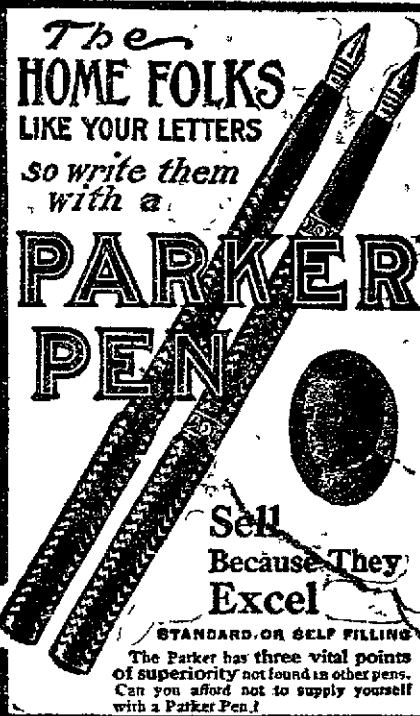

Note particularly the statement: "I am entirely through by eleven o'clock."

Are you through then?

You should be. You will be, if you use P. & G. Naphtha Soap.

COMMISSIONERS' DELAY A GREAT INCONVENIENCE

Residents and property owners in that section of the city lying north of West Main street and west of Thirteenth street, are greatly disappointed at the delay of the County Commissioners in beginning the grading and superstructure of the proposed West Church street bridge, the concrete abutments for which have been completed for two months.

West Church street, beyond the river bed, is rapidly building up and there are already long rows of houses in the district whose occupants find the inconvenience of access to the city a great source of annoyance which could be easily overcome if the bridge were pushed to completion before the winter weather interferes with the work.

It will require many laborers to do the work and if it is put off until election time it may prove too late to be finished before bad weather sets in for the winter.

There are several hundred people affected by this delay which seems wholly unnecessary since the contract for the grading was let some three weeks ago and as yet no work has been done on it. It is understood that a full force of men working steadily will require long enough to complete the bridge without being handicapped by unavoidable delays that frequently occur after a contract has been commenced.

It is still hinted that the electric railway company is considering the construction of a loop, extending their tracks across the new bridge and by a circuitous route around to Woodside, from where, eventually, the loop could be completed by connection with the end of the North Fourth street line. A recent interview with the local officials brought forth no definite information, but it is believed that such a move is under contemplation.

PUT AN END TO INDIGESTION

GIVE YOUR STOMACH A GOOD EAT WITHOUT FEAR OF INDIGESTION OR MISERY

Diapiesin Tastes Like Candy Though Rids You of Stomach Trouble and Makes You Feel Fine.

As there is often some one in your family who suffers an attack of indigestion or some form of stomach trouble, why don't you keep a case of Diapiesin in the house handy? This harmless blessing will digest anything you can eat without the slightest discomfort, and regulate a sour stomach five minutes after.

Tell your pharmacist to let you read the formula plainly printed on these 50-cent cases of Pape's Diapiesin, then you will readily see why they cure indigestion, sour stomach, heartburn and prevent at once such miseries as belching of gas, eructations of sour undigested food, nausea, headaches, dizziness, constipation and other stomach disorders.

Some folks have tried so long to find relief from indigestion with the common every-day cures advertised that they have about made up their minds that they have something else wrong, or believe there is a case of nervousness, gastritis, catarrh of the stomach or cancer.

This is a serious mistake. Your real trouble is, what you eat does not digest; instead, it ferments and sours, turns to acid. Gas and stomach poison, which will putrefy in the entire digestive tract and intestines, and, besides, poison the breath with nauseous odors.

A hearty appetite, with thorough digestion, and without the slightest discomfort or misery of the stomach, is waiting for you as soon as you decide to try Pape's Diapiesin.

One candy-like Triangle taken after eating, will promptly digest all your food, the same as a strong, healthy stomach would do it.

TODAY'S GAME

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 14.—The Tigers and the Cubs are clashing this afternoon in the last game of the world's series, if the Cubs win. The weather is ideal but the crowd is very small, only about 6,000 being present. Donovan and Schmidt are working for Detroit and Overall and Kling for Chicago.

COURT NEWS

Lunacy Inquest.

An inquest of lunacy was held in the probate court Wednesday morning, on Frank S. Rogers, a well-known man of this city, who is about 38 years old, and unmarried. He is stupid and will sit for hours gazing into vacancy. He was adjudged insane and was taken over to Columbus by Deputy Sheriff Hindel.

Common Pleas.

The following cases were argued and submitted in the circuit court: C. L. McCracken vs. Kate L. Stewart; a case to recover for work and labor.

Wason Price, et al., vs. John H. Hawley, involving a dispute over a line fence.

Jennie M. Brister vs. J. F. Keller, et al.

Elb Hall vs. Martha Wright, et al. Plaintiff claims judgment for $300.00, which he says was advanced in the purchase of certain coal lands in Athens county.

Probate Court.

The last will and testament of Enley Finney Haas, of Washington township, was offered for probate on Wednesday, and the hearing was set for Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

Marriage Licenses.

Stephen H. Keys, Harveys, Pa., and Ole Johnson, Newark.
Ralph I. Davis, Newark, and Mabel A. Miller, Newark.

Real Estate Transfers.

MENDING OF LACE.

How It Can Be Done by Simple Processes.

Lace mending is not such a difficult occupation as many women imagine, for it may be accomplished by any one capable of doing due needlework who is willing to devote the necessary time. And plenty of time is needed, for such a task cannot be hurried—in fact, it is the time this repairing requires almost as much as the skill necessary that makes the professional mender's charges seem unduly high.

To mend lace, at least the popular Irish crochet, the amateur should follow these simple processes: Take three thicknesses of newspapers, laying a sheet of blue tissue paper on top, then basting the four together. The lace is then laid face downward on tissue paper, which is put there to protect the lace from the printer's ink. Light blue is chosen in preference to white for the reason that the contrast between the blue and the lace helps to make the mending easier.

As a rule with Irish crochet, it is the background that needs repairing, and this is done with a crochet hook and just ordinary sewing cotton, working in accurately the stitches to match. The filling in should be done when possible from motif to motif, even though the ravage should not extend for such a distance. Of course in such a case it will be necessary to cut away threads.

To mend filet lace another process is necessary, for this work must be done on a frame, and there is nothing better for this purpose than the ten cent slate such as school children use. The slate portion is of course removed and the frame covered with flannel. The lace is then basted to it, so the hole will be in the middle, where it can be easily sewed.

How to Wash Fine Blankets.

Many good housewives do not care to risk the laundering of their fine, woolen blankets to their servants, and a word might help at this season from a good housewife, who always takes this task upon herself. She first shaves a half bar of yellow soap and pours this into a pint of boiling water. She stirs this until it becomes like a thick jelly and pours it into three buckets of lukewarm water. Into this she puts the blankets and washes them thoroughly. She does not rub soap on the blankets. She puts them through a wringer and in another tub of clear, lukewarm water, then keeps on rinsing in clear lukewarm water until every particle of soap is removed and hangs on the line in the hot sun, taking care to hang them perfectly straight. She leaves them in the sun for several hours until perfectly dry, then puts them out the next day if necessary.

How to Use Gas Safely

In attaching the gas lamp or stove which is attached to the pipe by means of a tube, follow an inviolable rule when turning with the light. Always turn off the cock next to the pipe whence the flow of gas comes. This will allow the gas in the connecting tube to be consumed. Otherwise the tubing might become loosened, and so if the gas is shut off by turning the cock next to the lamp or stove and the other cock is left on the pressure of the gas will be exerted on the tube and a leak, possibly serious, may result. Should the tube become dislodged there will be a flow of gas into the room, and from just such accidents asphyxiations have resulted.

How to Clean Lace.

To clean lace first sew muslin around a glass bottle and roll the lace carefully around it, tacking ends to muslin if necessary. It will improve the lace to touch it lightly with sweet oil while winding around the bottle. If you fill the bottle with cold water it will not burst. Set it with the lace around it in strong soapsuds of cold water and castle soap. Then tie top of bottle to kettle and boil for more than half an hour until water is clean. Rinse with very warm water and set bottle in sun. When lace is dry, remove and lay between sheets of white paper for twenty-four hours.

How to Sew Easily.

A small cake of white soap kept in the machine drawer is a great saver of machine needles and makes sewing easier. When a thick place, such as the crossing of two seams, is reached in stitching, rub the material with the soap, and the needle will pass through it as if by magic without breaking or even bending. This treatment is particularly valuable when one is stitching sheer lawns or mousselines and using a very fine needle.

How to Cure Watery Eyes.

To have the eyes water is not only annoying and distressing, but it is at times exceedingly embarrassing. Do not strain the eyes in any way and do not use them for any trying work at night. A mild eye wash, which will bring relief in most cases, is made of one ounce of pure water and one ounce of distilled witch hazel. Bathe the eyes frequently with this wash, which is especially excellent for eyes irritated by the wind.

How to Clean Gold Lace.

To clean gold lace buy some rock ammonia from a druggist, pound it finely and apply it with a piece of clean flannel to the lace, rubbing briskly. After thorough brushing the lace will look as good as new.

How to Kill Worms in Flowerpots.

If your plants in flowerpots seem inclined to decay, try sticking half a dozen matches in the earth around them, heads down. The sulphur in them will kill the worms that probably are eating away the roots.

A Traceless Poison

(Original.)

Having been summoned as an expert in chemistry in the Nolan case, I concluded my testimony with the remark, "A person desiring to kill another would be more likely to use a poison that would leave no trace," whereupon the prosecuting attorney asked me if there was such a poison. I having replied that there was, he asked me to name it. The judge forbade me to do so. The prosecutor insisted, but the judge was immovable. He would not permit me to name publicly a poison that would leave no trace.

Immediately after my testimony was published I was deluged with letters inquiring the name of the poison that left no trace. Most of them doubtless came from idle curiosity, but I was astonished at the number of those which showed plainly, from the pains the writers took to conceal their identity, that they were written for an evil purpose.

One day I received a call from a woman who asked for the secret. She said she had made a bet with her brother, who was a scientist, of $1,000 that there was such a poison, and she desired to prove it to him by trying it on a dog. If I would give her the name of the poison and she won she would give me half the amount.

I questioned her, then, going into another room, returned with a tiny pill, which I gave her, saying that if it killed the dog and left no trace she might refer her brother to me for evidence that she had won the bet. When she left I sent a housemaid to follow her, who brought me her address. Sending for a detective, I directed him to establish some sort of a watch on the house where she lived, to shadow her when she went out and report to me any case of illness that might occur to any one with whom she might be connected.

In a few days my man reported that the lady's husband had died suddenly. It had been given out that he had suffered an apoplectic stroke and had not lived an hour after.

I was thunderstruck. I alone knew the nature of the pill I had given the woman, and of course she would keep the secret. Nevertheless I was very much troubled at the result. I directed the detective to keep her under strict surveillance. Later he reported to me that she had visited the office of a life insurance company. Upon inquiry he had learned that her husband had been insured for $50,000. I hurried to the insurance office, called on the president and advised him before paying the claim to make sure that there was no trickery connected with it. But I would answer no questions.

The next I heard of the case was that upon examination of the body—exhumed for the purpose—it was discovered that it was the remains of the brother of the man insured. The insured himself had disappeared. Payment was refused, and the woman was arrested on a charge of fraud, to which was added a charge of murder.

The body of the deceased was given over to physicians with a view to discovering if the man had died a natural death. One reported apoplexy as the cause, another heart trouble and another kidney disease. Three different experts reported three different poisons found in the body. There was opium, arsenic and one other, the name of which I have forgotten. I was summoned as a witness for the prosecution and produced a sensation by refusing to testify on the ground of self incrimination.

Afterward I consented to give my evidence. I informed the court of the woman's visit to me, of her request for a poison that would leave no trace and the use she proposed to make of it. Then I told them that I had given her the pill. At this point a technical objection was interposed by the defendant's counsel, and the judge sustained him. I was forbidden to tell what was in the pill, the reason being that it had not been proved that the pill had been used. This left me in a very unfortunate position.

After a long trial the woman was acquitted of the charge of murder, and the charge of fraud was never pressed. The prosecution had failed to prove she knew that the man who was buried was her husband's brother or that she had poisoned him. Her counsel contrived to throw all the blame on her husband, who had disappeared.

After her acquittal the woman came to see me. She was curious to know if I had been deceived by her story about the bet and if I had really given her a traceless pill. Before replying I asked her to explain the case to me, and, after a solemn promise on my part to keep her secret, she did so.

Her husband's life was largely insured, and since they were an ill matched couple she resolved to poison him. Just as she was about to give him the pill I had furnished her her husband's brother came to the house for a visit. His health had been broken down by excesses, especially drugs that he had taken in large quantities. While at their house he suddenly died, probably of heart failure. The woman proposed to her husband that he disappear and his brother, who resembled him closely, be buried in his stead. This was done.

I told her she would find an explanation of my part in the matter in the paper the next morning. My explanation recited my experiences as to a traceless poison and my desire to make a test case. The whole filled two columns, at the end of which I gave the contents of the pill I had given the woman.

It was made of bread.

CHAPTER XI.

KARL'S paroxysm of rage and pain over, he threw himself into a chair and buried his face in his hands. He did not even look up as "Miller," his cynical glance fixed on him, walked out, closing the door softly behind him. His departure seemed to clear the atmosphere of its oppressive burden of evil,
however, and Karl jumped to his feet.
He made a few turns up and down the studio and then changed his velvet studio jacket for a greatcoat and plunged out of doors into the storm.

A brisk walk through the snow and gathering darkness revived him, and he turned back to the studio with a clearer brain. His old servant, Heinrich, met him at the door.

"Monsieur, the gentleman has returned and is dressing," the old man said in an awestruck whisper. "I think he is the devil," he added individually.

Heinrich had been terrified when Miller, returning to the studio in Karl's absence, had taken possession with the utmost coolness of Karl's guest chamber and proceeded to change to the evening clothes which had been sent to him there from the tailor's. Unwilling to meet the man again, Karl hurried into his own room and locked the door.
He did not emerge again until long after Miller had completed his dressing and had left the studio.

Karl tried desperately to drive thoughts of Olga from his mind. But the terrible flame of passion which had grown from the tiny, buried spark of boy love that lurked in his heart,
under the sinister suggestion of Miller, tortured him. He could hardly keep himself from rushing off to Olga's house in advance of the ball to beg her not to proceed with her design of bringing him and Elsa together, to tell her that he loved her and that in all the world there lived no other woman for him. Desperately at last he remembered his promise to see Mimi, and he hurried out and made his way afloat to the tattered little building in which she lived, hoping there to find forgetfulness. But go where he would the haunting black eyes, the cynical smile, that even, persistent voice, the insidious suggestions of Millar, the devil, followed him and would not be shaken off.

In a state of mind even more deperate than that of Karl, Olga went home with Herman. Their journey was as silent as their carriage was silent. Herman was absorbed in contemplation of the information Miller had given him regarding business affairs in Russia, in which he was heavily interested. Olga was torn by conflicting emotions. The man had roused in her the dormant love for Karl which she believed buried forever. She could not deny to herself now, as she had denied for six years, that she loved him. She knew now that during those six years it had been to Karl, not to Herman, that she had turned for sympathy, for understanding, and the knowledge maddened her.

Deep in her heart Olga exalted duty before every other virtue, and the duty of a loyal wife before every other duty. She could feel now the crumbling away of all her principles, her convictions, the ideals she had cherished. She had believed for six years that she had given to Herman every bit of her love and loyalty, and now
she was forced to the self confession that she had lived a lie even to herself. She loved Karl.

But away from Miller's influence,
she resolved that she would yet battle with and overcome the terrible impulses he had aroused. She would go ahead with the ball. She would bring Karl and Elsa together. She would make the artist love the beautiful, accomplished girl whom she herself had selected for his bride. She would make him happy; make them both happy, even if it meant that she must crush out her own hopes of happiness in doing so.

"That is a very remarkable man, that friend of Karl's," Herman said after he had driven some time in silence.

"Yes. He is very disagreeable," Olga replied.

"Oh, I don't think so," Herman protested. "To me he seemed very agreeable. Where does he come from? He seems to have been everywhere and to know everybody."

"And everything," assented Olga wearily. "I cannot tell you anything about him. Karl met him a year ago
at Monte Carlo."

"I am glad you persuaded him to come tonight," Herman said. "He is going to give me information that will be of great value to me."

Olga was on the point of telling Herman all about the terrible sermon the stranger had preached to them, of his wicked insinuations and of her terrible dread, but she checked herself. Herman seemed fascinatedly delighted by Miller, and she could not bring herself to talk to him now. They continued the ride in silence until some was reached.

Preparations were already going forward for the ball when Herman and Olga reached home. Decorators were putting the finishing touches on the magnificent ballroom. Florists were banking ferns and potted plants along the stairs and halls. All was bustle and preparation. Herman delightedly went forward and examined every detail of the work. Olga, who ordinarily would have taken the same keen interest in the preparations, turned wearily away and went to her own room. She dined alone under the plea of a headache and did not again appear until the guests began to arrive in the evening.

"You look very beautiful, my dear," Herman said to her when she entered the drawing room.

Her mood had changed. Her eyes seemed unnaturally bright. She herself could not tell what had caused the change. When she reached home she had looked forward with shuddering aversion to her second meeting with Miller. Now she was impatient for him to arrive. She wanted to talk to him, to hear again the soft, persuasive voice, the insidious harmony of his words that seemed to frame for her the thoughts she had never dared express.

She was bright, alive, witty, charming in the beauty of her fresh color, her glorious hair, her splendid figure set off charmingly in an evening gown of white satin brocade. She stood at the head of the winding staircase leading to the drawing room when Miller came.

The man seemed more suggestive of malignant purpose in his evening clothes than he had been in the afternoon. Immaculate in every detail of his dress, his very grooming suggested wickedness. He walked slowly up the stairs, feasting his eyes on Olga as she stood with hand extended to meet him.
"Madame, I am charmed to greet you again," he said. "I congratulate you on the wonderful transformation, and I need not ask in what way it was effected."

"It may be that I owe it to you, monsieur," Olga replied gayly, her eyes frankly meeting those of Miller as he looked at her with admiration he did not trust to disguise.

"I trust we are soon to have the pleasure of seeing Karl again."

"He will be here later, I believe," Olga answered. "Meanwhile, monsieur, I am going to ask you to make yourself agreeable to some of my guests."

"Madame, I can only make myself disagreeable to them," he replied cy-nically. "It is not they whom I came to see and entertain."

"But you must be entertained now," Olga said. "Soon I hope we may talk."
"We shall talk," Miller assured her,
bowing.

He passed on to greet Herman and was presented to others in the rapidly growing throng. Wherever he went Olga heard exclamations, usually of surprise or dismay, from her women guests, and the number that invariably gathered around him at first rapidly diminished. He seemed bent on making himself disagreeable, as he had promised.

One elderly spinster to whom he was presented greeted him with an affected, drooping eyes and an inane remark about the terrible cold.

"Yes, mademoiselle, your teeth will chatter tonight on the dresser."

To another, a portly lady who affected the airs of a girl, he said in his most silken tones:

"My dear madame, I must tell you
of a splendid remedy for getting thin."

"I don't want to get thin!" the portly one replied indignantly as she flounced away from him.

Olga waited impatiently for an opportunity to withdraw with Miller into a secluded place, where she might listen to him while he told her the things that she did not dare tell herself. The evening had grown late, however, and Karl had arrived before she could get away from her guests.

Karl had tried to avoid a tête-à-tête with Olga, and she took the first opportunity of introducing him to Elsa.
She rebelled in her soul now at the thought of their marriage, but her will drove her to the fulfillment of her purpose, to that extent at least. But it was with a heart torn with jealousy that she watched Karl and Elsa move off together and turned to meet Miller, standing beside her with his cynical, sinister smile.

SOCIETY WOMEN.

Some Spend Hundreds of Dollars a Year on Their Hair.

Leaders of society in New York know the social value of attractive hair, and according to a metropolitan newspaper every society woman spends a great deal of money to keep her hair beautiful and resplendent.

These women employ highly paid hair dressers and specialists, and so long as they have the money to gratify their desire for beautiful hair, none should complain.

But what about the thousands upon thousands of women just as intelligent, just as refined, and just as lovable as any society women, who have not the means for expert hair dressers and specialists?

What are they to do?

Are they not entitled to beautiful,
lustrous and luxuriant hair?

Most assuredly they are, and thousands of them give thanks daily to the great scientist and dermatologist who put within their reach, at a small price, the marvelous and quick acting hair tonic known all over America as Parisian Sage.

T. J. Evans, will sell you a large bottle of Parisian Sage for 50 cents.
It will make any woman's hair grow thicker, more beautiful - and more lustrous in a few weeks.

It cures dandruff by killing the microbes, and it is guaranteed by T.
J. Evans to cure dandruff, stop falling hair and itching scalp in two weeks, or money back. Get a bottle while it's on your mind. It is a most pleasant hair dressing, and is not sticky or greasy.

For sale by Evans' Drug Store, or direct, all express charges prepaid, from Giroux Mfg. Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

There was a large attendance, about 77 being present. The day was very pleasantly spent in social conversation.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE ORPHIUM

The Orphium bill for the first half of the present week continues to please and is generally conceded to be the best that has been offered by the house in a long time. Bryant and Seville in their Blue Jays musical comedy act, are great. The turn is filled with auditors in both make-up and comedy, and the music is good.
Billy Morse and the Sherwood Sisters were wonderful with applause last night.
Their act went better than at any previous performance here. Sidney Toledo, contortionist, still entertains with some hair-raising, back-bending, mile. La Aelia has a toe dance that is more appreciated than here. The dance is the finest ever witnessed in this city, from an artistic standpoint. But it seems that artistic dancing isn't very much appreciated
here. Mr. Moore sang "When the Wind Over the Sea Blows a Gale," the one of the most pleasing features Mr.
Moore sings it with a good, full baritone voice, with excellent effect. E. B. H.

As a special Friday night attraction,
Manager Moore, of the Orphium, has secured the promise of one of the best artists in the business, Duke Headington, a well known vaudeville cartoonist and entertainer, who is a personal friend of Manager Moore, has agreed to appear this week.

Large crowds attended the picture show at the Auditorium last night, and were well pleased with the display of new subjects Prof. Smith's and orchestra-travelling entertainment program of new numbers that were good. The song
"Don't Scorn the Sailor" was well done by Mrs. Smith. The subjects were:
Lucky Jim, The Bandits, Pictureque
Java, The Incendary, and Ten Minutes of Comedy with the Boys.

THE PRESS AGENT SAYS:
Spectacular scene effects, gorgeous costumes, prettily girls with tuneful voices, and incidents that hesitate with in the mind of the audience, are a few of the features of Harry Hastings' Boston Gang next Saturday, matinee and night at the Auditorium theater.

The extravaganza throughout implies many possibilities, all of which are realized. Dances, part songs and choruses follow in rapid succession. These spectacles are striking, particularly that of Zenda, a French physical culturist, who presents the most marvelous feat of his kind ever seen in this country. During the course of his exhibition he dislocates his shoulders, inflates his chest to a balloon size and then deranges his vital organs, and finally manages to play a musical movement that extends from head in.

The coming of "The Devil" to the Ad-itorium on Monday night is being looked forward to with keen anticipation by the theater goers of Newark.
By arrangement with Henry W. Savage, Mr. Alfred E. Arons is enabled to present to us the only version authorized by the famous Hungarian artist, Franz Moher, and to which Mr. Savage possesses the exclusive rights. At the Garden theater, New York, this production caused a bigger sensation than any dramatic presentation in the history of New York theater. The clamor for seats amounted almost to a riot. There is hardly any doubt that Newark will give to this celebrated play a crowded house.

George McManus' New York World
comedy cartoon, "Panhandle Pete," will receive its initial performance in the city Oct. 15, matinee and night, at the Auditorium theater. Tuesday and Wednesday. This cartoon play is the best of all newspaper cartoon adaptations, and no experience has been spared to mount the production from a scenic and costuming standpoint. The cast needs no mention, as it includes among its members the best but could be named from the musical comedy field. It is with perfect assurance that the management announces one of the season's best musical presentations, and for an evening of solid fun,
"Panhandle Pete" stands in a class by himself.

POST GRADUATE

Students Enrolled for Course in Newark High School and Will Be Known as Fifth Year Course.

Twenty students have been enrolled for the newly installed post-graduate course of the Newark High School. The course is being given this year for the first time in the history of the Newark schools and, judging from the interest being manifested, will be one of the most popular features of the city's already complete educational system.

This, known as the "Fifth Year Course," will be made compulsory for all graduates of the Newark High School who expect to teach in the elementary grades of the Newark schools. The following subjects compose the course:

First semester—Psychology, Geography Review, Physiology, Methods of Teaching Literature, Music and Drawing (once a week).

One half day each week to be devoted to observation of the work in the elementary grades, under the supervision of the ward principals.

Second semester—Methods of Recitation and School Management. (This instead of Psychology.) Arithmetic Review, Grammar Review, Nature Study, (Instead of Literature); Music and Drawing (once a week); Practice Work in the Grades (each member teaching one half day in the Elementary grades, instead of observation study.)

Principal T. Otto Williams really deserves the credit for the establishment of this course in the High school for, during the two years of his principalship here, he has joined with Superintendent Simkins in urging forward the adoption of such a course and it probably would have been instituted sooner had the facilities and accommodations been at hand as they now are.

"MY LITTLE MADEMOISELLE."

The song which bears this name is unquestionably one of George M. Cohan's best—it is certainly making a hit up at the New York theater, where it is now being sung as the musical feature in "The American Idea."

The words and music of this song success will be given in next Sunday's New York World, October 18. Don't fail to get it. Better order from your newsdealer in advance.

Thousands are saving Sunday World songs. Why not you?

A new late, popular song every Sunday.

NO FUN

To Be a Runaway Boy, Says Young Pearl Hoefler—Had Tough Experience.

The writers of dime novels have the happy faculty of painting some very alluring pictures of the life of runaway boys, but somehow or other when anything like that happens in real life the vividly colored pictures soon assume a very sombre shade.

At least 11-year-old Pearl Hoefler, who ran away from the Children's Home, has reached that conclusion. "I slept any old place. Two nights in a lumber-yard, one night in an ice wagon, one night under a shock of fodder, twice in a haymow, and twice under a back porch. I ate from a garbage can and was glad to get anything I could in the way of food," was the way young Pearl summed up his experiences as a fugitive from the home.

He was captured by the police just as he was crawling from under a porch, returned to Newark and he is now in the Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster, where he will be educated and taught a trade.

BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY

MR. AND MRS. EDWARD L. JONES HAPPILY SURPRISED TUESDAY, NEAR GRANVILLE.

Ninrods of Village Having Poor Luck—Popular Lecture Course—Dentson Faculty Picnics.

Granville, O., October 14—Mr. and Mrs. Ed. L. Jones, highly respected farming people, residing a short distance north of the village, were the recipients of a thorough and complete surprise at their home, on Tuesday, the occasion being the anniversary of the birth of Mr. Jones. The fact that it was the birth day of Mr. Jones, became known to a number of his relatives and they decided that the event should be appropriately celebrated. Long before daylight several of the plotters called at the home of Ed and took him out into the woods to hunt squirrels, while Mrs. Jones was dispatched by members of the household to bring her daughter, Mrs. Viva Smith, who lived near by, to spend the day with her. When Mr. and Mrs. Jones returned home several hours later it was to find the house filled with relatives and friends, there being in the neighborhood of fifty persons present. After Mr. and Mrs. Jones had recovered from their surprise they made every one at home and devoted themselves assiduously to the task of entertaining them. A sumptuous dinner was served and a day brimming over with enjoyment was had. Mr. and Mrs. Jones were the recipients of quite a number of useful and handsome presents, among them being a large easy chair. The day will long be remembered by those who were in attendance.

Quite a number of the sportsmen of Granville have been out in the woods every day since the squirrel season opened and all agree that the present hunting season which began in this vicinity as a failure, will end as a failure. The dry weather has been disastrous to all kinds of wild game, and even the usually numerous rabbit is reported as being scarce. Although the squirrel season has been on for half a month but few of the little frisky fellows have been bagged. There is very little shock in the woods for the squirrels this season and the one thing necessary to successful squirrel hunting, dampness of the ground, has been lacking. Woods that were alive last year with the little animals are deserted this year, for the squirrel is migrative and goes where nuts are plentiful, and where the autumn woods are fresh and inviting.

Another story of the luck of a drunken man developed Tuesday evening, when a horse driven by a young man living west of Granville, ran away. The young man had been imbibing too freely and was on his way at an early hour in the evening, when the horse frightened at something alongside the road in the western part of the village and ran away. The young man did not know what was going on and the lines hung loosely in the wagon. A short distance west of town the horse shied and the occupant of the wagon was thrown to the ground, lighting on his head and shoulders. He was full of dirt when he was able to collect his thoughts sufficiently to get up and ascertain whether he had been hurt or not. After discovering that he has escaped serious injury he walked back to the village almost completely sobered by his experience.

Tuesday afternoon seats were reserved at the Town Hall for the lecture course. This course consists of a series of five lectures and musical programs, the price of the season ticket being but $1. The first number on the course will occur on next Tuesday night. This is an exceptional course, consisting of three lectures and two musical programs, and at such a reasonable price many should take advantage of the opportunity that is offered and attend.

The members of the faculty of Denton University picnicked at the biological pool Tuesday afternoon. The day was a rare fall day, crisp and cold and the picnickers sat around blazing camp fires while the coffee was steaming. Those present said that it reminded them of real camp life, and they were sorry when the fires went out and it was time to depart.

Carey Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Jones, residing north of Granville, who has been here on an extended visit returned to California on Tuesday.

Mr. M. P. Ashbrook left Tuesday night for Chicago on a business trip.

Mrs. Charlotte Myers of Zanesville, who has been visiting here and in the vicinity for the past week, returned home Tuesday.

ENTERTAINMENTS IN HIGH SCHOOL NEW AUDITORIUM

Tickets Have Been on Sale a Week—Indications Point to Big Success.

The High School Lecture Course tickets have been on sale one week, and indications point to a large attendance. The new high school auditorium will be ready for the first number one week from tonight—October 21.

The nearness of the first number gives an added impetus to the sale of tickets.

Germain, the wizard, has an international reputation. Many of those who have seen Keller and Maro will recognize in Germain much of their ability in producing tricks of magic. This promises to be one of the most entertaining of all the numbers. Single admission price for this number will be 35 cents.

The Schilkret Hungarian Orchestra appears here November 26. This is the fifteenth season in America for this famous organization. It was through the efforts of Mrs. Potter Palmer of Chicago, that this orchestra was brought to America during the Chicago World's Fair. Since that time they have played all through the East, returning to Chicago in time to play for Prince Henry on his tour through this country some years ago. They were also summoned to Washington to play at the wedding of Miss Alice Roosevelt. Popular music, as well as classical, is given a place on the program. Single admission to this number will cost 50 cents.

Men of affairs need no introduction to the next lecture on December 22. Governor John A. Johnson of Minnesota, has been considered as presidential timber. He is making an enviable reputation on the lecture platform, in non-political lectures, as he has made in the field of politics. His subjects are, "The Majesty of the Law," and "Landmarks of Liberty." Single admission to this number will cost 50 cents.

Mention will be made of the three other numbers of the course in tomorrow's issue of The Advocate.

Season tickets are on sale at Hall's drug store, and by pupils. The ticket for the season, including reserved seat privilege, will cost $1.50.

Single admission to the three numbers mentioned will cost $1.35. Single admission to all of the numbers will cost $2.55. The season ticket is much more satisfactory than to risk getting single admission tickets. The success of the enterprise this year will determine whether or not an annual high school lecture course will be offered. Do you want it to succeed?
